TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 5.—In the shadowy background of the sensational Mattson kidnaping case there emerged today for the first time the figure of a woman.

She took her place in investigator's reconstructed picture of the crime as every indication pointed to the expectation the missing boy, Charles Mattson, aged 10, son of a prominent Tacoma surgeon, would be returned to his hearthside in a few hours.

"Zero" Hour Seen
On all sides were evidences that the "zero" hour was at hand—that a rendezvous either was imminent or had been kept to pay the black bearded abductor the $28,000 he demanded in a note when he whisked the boy from his hill top home 9 days ago.

Officers and members of the Mattson family were quite apprehensive at high tension, especially the father of the little victim, Dr. William W. Mattson.

The feminine touch to the mystery was furnished by one of the investigators who has been among the most diligent of those working for the recovery of the boy.

"We naturally hope the man who has the Mattson boy will free him today," said the sleuth, and then added significantly:

"Or the woman who was with him."

Accomplice To Kidnaping

This was interpreted to mean that evidence has been uncovered to indicate the kidnapers has an accomplice.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—"Attention Germany!" was the warning implicitly appended to a British protest against Spanish Rebel molestation of English shipping highest authorities in London said today as emergency instructions were sent to 17 of his majesty's warships in Spanish waters.

The protest to the Junta of Gen. Francisco Franco (which brought speedy Rebel apologies) was meant as a general notice to all foreign powers, and especially Germany, that Britannia will protect her shipping on the high seas against any force.

Clear indication that Spain may not be made a war arena at the expense of British interests was the intent behind dispatch of a destroyer to Cadiz with a protest against stopping of the orange-laden British merchantman Etrich, authorities said.

Organization Today Opens Session—President's Message Wednesday

NEW DEAL MEASURES MUST BE RE-ENACTED

Wordy, Brawling Session Of Congress Is Forecast Of Many Observers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Falling gavel on the stroke of noon sent the new 75th congress away today on its long and, as yet, uncharted course.

The charting will come later, starting tomorrow when President Roosevelt delivers his annual message on the state of the nation, and continued two weeks hence in his second inaugural address.

Packed galleries witnessed the opening of what promises to be a long and arduous session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A new congress, the 75th, so crowded with Democrats that their sheer numbers constitute an embarrassment to the leadership, took the center of the stage in Washington today for a six months' run that will chart the course of the new deal from here on.

It promises to be a wordy, brawling session which will severely test the leaders' patience and power.

There are so many Democrats—76 in the senate and 332 in the house—and so few Republicans—16 in the senate and 88 in the house—that a minority opposition program is scarcely conceivable. The Republicans must largely go along with the Democrats. There is no other place for them to go.

Auto Strike Is Discussed At White House

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The tempo of federal mediation in the fast spreading automobile strike was quickened today when Secretary of Labor Perkins went into conference regarding the situation generally with President Roosevelt at the white house.

Miss Perkins was uncommunicative as she hurried into the executive offices, but admitted she had come to the white house to discuss the auto strike.

From white house sources came strong indication that the subject of America's most serious labor trouble in some time might be taken up again—and at some length—at the cabinet meeting slated for two o'clock this afternoon.

Elevator Falls At Washington

Cage Drops 40 Feet—Overcrowded Because Of Opening Of Congress

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., new Republican senator from Massachusetts, was among the occupants of an elevator that fell 40 feet at the capitol today but with others was uninjured.

The elevator was overcrowded with visitors to the opening session of the senate. It rose slowly from the first floor until near the senate gallery when it started to descend. Despite frantic movements by the operator, the car fell slowly but steadily to the foot of the elevator pit. Special safety mechanism prevented a crash and the car hit the bottom with only a gentle thud.

Automatic devices were used to open the car door and several passengers clambered out into the basement of the capitol. Then the car worked properly.

Lodge finally reached the floor he desired. He was smiling over his experience.

Dr. John A. Meehan with his wife and family, has returned from a motor trip which took them to Mexico City.

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—With establishment of a "Pacific blockade" reported the penalty for refusal, Germany today delivered an ultimatum to Spain demanding release of the cargo and passenger of the German steamer Palos within exactly three days.

Unless this is done, the German government warned, two Spanish steamers seized by Nazi warships will be turned over to General Francisco Franco's rebel fleet and "further drastic measures" taken.

Couched in terms which brought a threat of open intervention on the rebel side, the Nazi ultimatum brought shudders to foreign observers here, and efforts to ascertain what further measures were likely met with intimations in high naval sources that a blockade was under consideration.

Loyalists Blame German Aid For Gains By Rebels

MADRID, Jan. 5.—Madrid's leftist defense Junta in a sensational communique today admitted important rebel gains in fighting northwest of Madrid yesterday and laid the "blame" for the Loyalists' defeat directly upon Germany.

Whereas in the past rebel successes have been minimized and news reports of them have been censured, the military defense Junta today admitted frankly the Loyalists lost ground under yesterday's intense insurgent bombardment.

The defense Junta stated the rebel successes were made possible by participation of German armed forces in Spain and by the advice of General Wilhelm Faupel, charge d'affaires at the German legation at Burgos, rebel Junta capital.

General Faupel, actually is commander of the forces now besieging Madrid.

POPE SPENDS "FAIR NIGHT"

Consultant To Aid Dr. Milani

Unofficially Reported Pope's Condition Has Been Further Weakened

POPE SUFFERS FROM NEURITIS

By FRANK GERVANI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 5.—Pope Pius spent only a "fair night," having slept at intervals, Vatican sources said today. Dr. Amanti Milani, after his morning visit, merely repeated his laconic: "The Holy Father's condition remains stationary."

For the first time during the pontiff's long illness, it was understood, a consultant is to be called in today by Dr. Milani—Dr. Achille Bonanone, a Roman specialist in kidney disorders who carried out a minor operation on the Pope several months ago.

Further Weakened
The pontiff was unofficially reported further weakened with Dr. Milani giving him repeated insulin injections to strengthen the heart muscles and stimulate its action.

The Pope's sleeplessness, medical authorities said, is the result of frequent attacks of neuritis. As his nervous system gives way, they said, the paralysis with which the pontiff's legs are afflicted slowly creeps upward.

Dr. Milani's official communique remained a source of anxiety today, especially since the doctor reserved an official opinion as to whether the Pope's heart would be able to endure much longer the strain caused by the pontiff's arterio sclerosis.

BELIEVE WOMAN CONNECTED WITH KIDNAPING CASE

plage, a woman, who may be looking after the boy in some hideout in the northwest, while the actual child thief is negotiating with Dr. Mattson in the vicinity of Tacoma.

As the day progressed, the crop of rumors customary in a big mystery again was evident. First there was the one that a wealthy Tacoma attorney had received threats that one of his children would be kidnapped. This was denied by the attorney and all officers. The next was the one that a wealthy Tacoma attorney had received threats that one of his children would be kidnapped. This was denied by the attorney and all officers. The next was the one that a wealthy Tacoma attorney had received threats that one of his children would be kidnapped. This was denied by the attorney and all officers.

"phooie." There also were many others, all apparently unsubstantiated. The feeling that a crisis in the case was imminent resulted to some extent from the following:

On Way To Pay Ransom

Late last night Lieut. Col. Appelmann, a Tacoma chamber of Commerce official, close friend of the Mattson family, and the most prominently mentioned of the possible intermediaries, departed from the surgeon's residence in his car and disappeared.

Speculation was hot that he was on his way to pay the $28,000 in bills of denominations demanded by the kidnaper, but there was the possibility that he had already delivered the money.

The latter theory was strengthened by the fact Appelmann some hours previously had carried a cardboard box from the home, supposedly containing the ransom, and had disappeared for quite a time then.

At any rate, most observers believed the box contained the ransom, and that a rendezvous either had been kept or was imminent, with the consequent expected release of the boy.

The G-Men, under the direction of Harold Nathan assistant chief of famous federal sleuths, were saying nothing, but quietly waiting.

They went back into their shells after Nathan had broken his habitual silence to assure the newspapers through the press that the government was saying on the sidelines, in keeping with a promise to Dr. Mattson, until the boy's release and after Dr. Mattson had appealed to all law enforcement agencies to give the desperate a clear path to get the ransom and free his little prisoner.

SHOWDOWN IS CLOSER IN AUTO INDUSTRY AS MORE BECOME JOBLESS

which has called the strikes which closed 14 of the company's 69 plants. Upwards of 80,000 men now are out of work because of the labor struggle, and the number, G. M. feared, may grow to 135,000 yet this week.

Sloan's statement, posted on bulletin boards in all G. M. plants this morning, came as Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., made public a new letter to Sloan in which the union reiterated request for a national collective bargaining conference and outlined the union's other demands.

Injunction Served
Meantime, according to dispatches received here, a strike was called by the night shift at Toledo Chevrolet. The plant there employs 1,000 workers. Sit-down strikers still held possession of the Fisher Body plants of G. M. at Flint, Mich., while Martin and other union leaders were served with copies of an injunction obtained by G. M. in an attempt to force withdrawal of the Flint sit-down strikers.

Martin has 15 days to reply to the injunction. Company officials would not disclose if they planned any move to force a showdown on the injunction. Frank Murphy, Michigan's red-headed governor, has warned against violence and said he did not plan intervention by either state police or National Guardsmen.

The only violence on the street where was reported from Cleveland where there was a minor clash between pickets at the Fisher Body plant there.

Sloan's statement today marked the latest development, and was made as federal labor conciliators attempted to lay groundwork for settlement. Bluntly, Sloan, after saying the "real issue was perfectly clear," set down five company principles.

Company's Stand

"1—G. M. will not recognize any union as the sole bargaining agency for its workers, to the exclusion of all others.
"2—Work in General Motors plants will continue to depend on the ability and efficiency of the worker—not on the membership or non-membership in any labor organization whatsoever. This means you do not have to pay tribute to anyone for the right to work.
"3—General Motors will continue to pay the highest justifiable wages in the future as it has in the past and just as it is doing at present. It believes in high wages.
"4—General Motors standard work week will continue to be 40 hours. Time and one-half will be paid for overtime.
"5—Seniority rights will be observed under the rules laid down by the Automobile Labor Board appointed by the president of the United States in March, 1934. These rules are recognized and permit to all workers and permit no discrimination against any worker on account of any organization membership."

The Automobile Labor Board, set up when a general strike threatened the industry about three years ago, is no longer functioning. Some observers speculated today on whether a similar agency might be again created. The government has assigned its ace trouble-shooter, Edward F. McGrady, to the situation. The conciliator conferred in Washington with John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee of Industrial Organization. The U. A. W. is a C. I. O. affiliate and Lewis has promised to back Martin to the limit.

G. M. and the union appeared deadlocked. The two main issues were the proposal for a national collective bargaining conference, which G. M. spurns, and the G. M. demand for vacating of the Fisher plants at Flint. Sloan also told the company's 235,000 workers that they did not have to join a union to bargain collectively, and denied that "any union or any labor dictator will dominate the plants of G. M."

These may be ordered to put to sea to protect British shipping, but it was stated that Britain has no intention at the moment of sending any naval reinforcements to Spain.

GOVERNOR EARLE WILL PRESENT HIS PROGRAM

five's program was expected to turn back to his unfulfilled platform of 1934.

The 1874 constitution loomed as the only apparent immediate obstacle to the administration legislation program. All else favored the Democrats with the Republicans constituting as out-and-out minority.

And even the constitution, condemned many times by the present administration as "antiquated," may not be a hindering force for long; the chief executive has indicated plans for drastic revision of that document so that his program can ultimately find its way to the statute books—and stay there.

Open At Noon

At noon, gavel fell in both chambers, their reverberations through the gold-gilded halls calling the general assembly into session for the 132nd time, for the most part, the day will be given over to routine formalities, the ground work of which has been arranged during closed-door caucuses and conferences of the chief executive's "inner cabinet."

Immediate business consisted of canvassing the votes for auditor-general-elect Warren R. Roberts, now a state senator, and state treasurer-elect F. Clair Ross, now a deputy attorney general, both of whom take office in May.

The general assembly is then expected to announce appointment of committees, retain John Fertig, a Republican, as chief of the legislative reference bureau, while the senate will name John C. Morelock, Philadelphia, its secretary to succeed A. Boyd Hamilton, and Dennis Mulvihill, Allegheny, as its chief clerk.

Rep. Roy E. Putman, Greene, will continue as speaker of the lower chamber while the senate will go through the motions of reelecting Mr. Harvey Huffman, Monroe, as president pro tempore. Republican senators decided to nominate Sen. John G. Homsher, Lancaster, again for president pro tempore but propose no candidates for the other senate posts. Senator Homsher left that office at the most recent emergency session in December.

It will offer an optimistic survey of the country's recovery from the depression, and emphasize that the command is: "forward with the new deal."

On Friday, Mr. Roosevelt will submit his long-awaited budget, over which he has sweated for many days. The government's income and its outgo still do not balance—but the country will be offered the prospect of an early balance, provided that business continues on the up-grade and displays a capacity to absorb into private industry the millions that still crowd the relief rolls. Like the annual message, the budget message will be pitched in an optimistic key.

After the message and the organization of committees comes the deluge—a deluge of legislation both old and new.

The greater part of the new deal must be re-enacted or tinkered with in some degree. Some of the most important of the powers of the president, granted by earlier congresses for the "emergency," must be extended. Other legislation must be re-enacted and corrected in the light of administrative experience.

At a dinner party in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Mrs. J. E. Dundore, of Franklin avenue, Wilkensburg, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Frances Verna Dundore, to the Rev. David King Kerr, pastor of the Rich Hill and Volant Presbyterian churches.

Miss Dundore is a student at the University of Pittsburgh, where she is a Kappa Phi sorority member. She is active in young people's work at the Christ Methodist Episcopal church and for two years has served as president of the Young People's Fellowship group.

Rev. Kerr is a graduate of the College of Wooster, Wooster, O., class of 1932, and he prepared for the ministry at Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, class of 1935.

Since leaving the seminary he has had the Rich Hill-Volant charge and has become one of the very popular young ministers of the county. He has taken a great interest in the young people of his own congregations and the county and has helped considerably in their activities and the broadening of their organizations.

Laura Stevenson Class
Games and contests were enjoyed last evening after a short business meeting by the members of the Laura Stevenson class of the Central Presbyterian church assembled in Mrs. Agnes Fisher's home, 16 Wallace avenue.

The business period was led by the president, Mrs. Inez Martin. The hostess was assisted in serving a nicely prepared lunch by Mrs. Evelyn Cox and Miss Edna Robinson.

The monthly meeting of the Queen Esther Class of the Third U. P. church, was held last evening in the home of Mrs. Edward McClymonds on Young street, with the Misses Mollie Livingston, Dorothy Kay and Juliana Mackey sharing as co-hostesses. A good attendance marked the occasion.

After the devotional period, in charge of Mrs. Bernard Hook, teacher, Miss Laura Mooney who is a student of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Ill., now vacationing in this city, pleased with two vocal selections. Others taking part in the opening, included Mrs. Joe Must, Mrs. John Kenahan, Mrs. Fred Thompson and Mrs. Thomas Baskefield, each giving recorded reports of interest.

The program committee who later took charge composed Mrs. Herman Houk, Mrs. Robert Gibson and Mrs. Thomas Baskefield. The entertainment featured a novel hat sale, the proceeds to be used for the Jim Brown missionary fund. Other games were also enjoyed, with Marjette Daugherty and Mrs. John Kenahan receiving the prizes.

Mrs. Bernard Hook surprised their former member and guest of the evening, Miss Laura Mooney in presenting her with a gift in behalf of the class members, as a token of their esteem. She responded graciously. Regent Showing Rose Bowl Game

You probably thrilled to the 71 yard run of Bill Daddio in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day. When Frank Patrick carried a couple of linemen over the goal line on his shoulders you wanted to cheer. The whole game was a radio, thrill, but you can see it on the screen. The Regent Theatre has the pictures of the game between Pitt and Washington and the cameraman taking them knew where to look for thrills.

The football pictures are an added feature to a stellar program. Irene Dunn in "Theodore Goes Wild" presents the best work of her career. They've taken Irene out of those too-sweet roles she played and given her some robust, down to earth comedy and she comes through with a picture that should rate high in the listings for the best ten.

It's grand entertainment at the Regent. Plenty of laughs, no heavy problems to decide, and then the Rose Bowl pictures as an addition.

JUNIOR B. P. W. CLUB BOARD MEMBERS MEET

Executive Board members of the Junior Business and Professional Women's club, was held Monday evening in the home of Miss Laura Ramsey on Centennial street, with Miss Helen Messner as co-hostess. Business items were given consideration, and a most gratifying report on the dance held by the club Christmas night in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, was given by Miss Lucille Emery, chairman. It is hoped to launch this particular frolic on December 25 of each year, as an annual social function to which the young social set, and college students home for vacation, can look forward to.

Plans are being rounded out for their membership dinner bridge on January 19, with the officers of the club filling the role of hostesses. This evening, the club members will have a dinner meeting at 6 o'clock in the usual tea room, and following, they will be favored with a review on the book "Gone With The Wind" given by Miss Olivia Griffith.

BUTLER WEDDING OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mrs. Samuel H. McGoun, Jr., of Albany, N. Y., who spent the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McGoun, of Moody avenue, and Mrs. John M. Earley, of East Palestine, O. who is also known in the younger set in this city, were among a large number of out of town guests at a Butler wedding recently.

The principals were Susan Elizabeth Ritts, and James O. C. Howard, whose marriage took place on December 29, the twenty seventh wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Ritts. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Howard, Sr., of North Bluff street, Butler.

The ceremony was one of the loveliest of the season, taking place at the Ritts home on Belmont road, at 6:30 in the evening. The Rev. Ralph W. McKenzie, of the First M. E. church, was the officiating minister, and Thornton Wilcox, of Pittsburgh, played the traditional wedding march on a Hammond organ. Because of the illness of the bride's father, she was given in marriage by her uncle, F. Craig Dickson.

Heavy white slipper satin, princess lines, and button trimmed, with a Peter Pan collar of lace as its only trimming fashioned the bride's gown. Her veil of Duchess lace edged with tulle (the same one worn by her aunt, Mrs. Dickson, and her sister, Mrs. Albert Taylor Sprankle, wore as brides), fell from a coronet of the lace. Her flowers were in a Colonial bouquet of carnations, roses, valley lilies and asters, rimmed with a wide maline ruff and tied with ribbon which matched her gown.

Mrs. Sprankle was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, George Edwin Howard, Jr., was best man. John Dickson and William McElvain served as ushers. The newlyweds departed on a trip to New York, concluding which they will reside with the bride's parents. Mrs. Howard is a graduate of the Butler High school, National Park Seminary in Washington, D. C., and Miss Conley's school in Pittsburgh. Her husband attended Westminster Preparatory school in Connecticut, and is a graduate of Shady Side Academy, and Washington and Jefferson college.

QUOTARIANS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Succeeding Neva Moore as president of Quota Club this year will be Martha Bigley, her election taking place Monday evening, at the usual weekly meeting in the Elks club.

Other officers elected were: Reva D. Gormley, first vice president; Mrs. Julia Hrdina, second vice; Neva Moore and Marge Cordes, new members of the board of which Corrine Mercer and Claire Brown are the other two; Arlene Wald treasurer (re-elected); Lila Henshaw, secretary (re-elected).

At the meeting next week, the new officers will be installed by the past presidents club. Other business of an important nature taking place last night were preliminary plans for a benefit bridge which is scheduled for January 18, at the Nurses Home of Jameson hospital.

For this annual event, Mrs. Julia Hrdina was named chairman, and her committee includes: Lenore Taylor, Arlene Wald and Orta Synder.

Jordan-Ramsey
The marriage of Miss Blanche Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jordan, of Blacktown, to Edgar Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ramsey, of Mercer, was quietly solemnized at Wellsburg, W. Va., December 31. The Rev. William J. Frayer, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

Miss Naomi Jordan attended her sister as bridesmaid, while Ralph Ramsey served his brother as best man. The bride was attractive in a gown of gray crepe, with blue and gold trimmings, with which a shawl-dress of pink roses and lilies of the valley adorned. Miss Jordan wore blue and silver crepe, with gray accessories.

A wedding dinner for the bridal party following at the home of the groom's parents. Dispensing with a wedding trip until spring, Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey will make their home at Mrs. R. M. Russell's residence near Mercer.

Tigers Auxiliary
Bingo provided a pleasing entertainment for the Tigers auxiliary when it held the usual meeting on Monday evening, in the South Mill street club rooms. Prizes were captured by Mrs. Dan Di Carlo and Miss Lucy DiCarlo. Mrs. Anthony Fuleno won the club award. Refreshments were served by the two hostesses for last night Mrs. Nick Toscano and Mrs. James Scarazzo. The next meeting will take place in two weeks.

Re-Delta Deck
Re-Delta Deck club associates will meet Wednesday evening with Clara Bernine, 426 Northview avenue for their regular event.

FINE PROGRAM AT HERSHEY MEETING

Hershey auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church held the January meeting in the newly decorated church parlors Monday evening.

Forty-two members answered roll call after which an excellent program was presented under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Davis, Jr., and Mrs. Wilfred Thomas.

The evening's pleasure was greatly enhanced by music by Mrs. S. J. Callahan and her Hawaiian ensemble consisting of Curtis Young, Helen Adams and Thelma McElroy. A most inspirational devotional period was in charge of Miss Mae Martin who spoke on the subject, "If I Be His Disciple." Miss Martin closed her remarks by quoting from "The Vision of Sir Launfal" and reading from Henry Van Dyke's "The Way." The ensemble then played "The Touch of His Hand In Mine."

The subject for the evening was "Our Church at Work in the Spanish Speaking Field." The topic was divided into three parts: "The Background," by Mrs. W. F. Moody; "Story of the Years," Mrs. Russell Melvin; "Work Today," Mrs. John Park. All these were ably presented.

Concluding the talks, moving pictures of Guatemala and Venezuela were shown, while other beautiful Hawaiian selections were contributed by the ensemble.

Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser presided as president over the meeting, during

THE MELLON GIFT

IN ALL the history of the United States there has probably been no gift made to the government and the people that quite compares with the gift of Andrew W. Mellon of his art treasures and a suitable building to house them. Experts have appraised the paintings in the collection as being worth fifty million dollars. The building is estimated to cost ten million dollars.

The gift is such a stupendous one that it is breath taking. Some of the finest works of the old masters are included in the Mellon collection and in a few years they will be in the new gallery where they will be the property of all the people. With becoming modesty Mr. Mellon insisted that the gallery not be named for him.

Few men in public life have been castigated more than Andrew W. Mellon. After years of carping criticism the human thing to do would be to retire into a shell of isolation and permit such treasures to go to his heirs. Mr. Mellon has risen high above the level of his critics in making the gift.

GOVERNOR LANDON SINCE THE ELECTION

Two fates may befall a political leader who looms large in the American picture after he has been defeated for office. He may pass quietly into political oblivion or he may commence to grow steadily in the estimation and the affection of the people of the United States.

We have had, in our country, men who have lost public interest after having been defeated for the presidency and we have had others, like the late William Jennings Bryan, who have continued to develop in the judgment of the populace.

It must, therefore, be extremely gratifying to the friends of Governor Landon to note the increase in esteem toward him which seems to be developing among American citizens. Those who knew the governor personally before and during the campaign were impressed with his sound business sense, and his charming and somewhat modest personality. Persons who had not been fortunate enough to come in close contact with him but who have met him since the election have been gratified with the experience. The recent Gridiron dinner at Washington furnishes an illustration of this fact. The Kansas governor made an excellent impression among the guests there and he was "up against" some of the most discerning persons in the world. The impression which Mr. Landon left with the Gridiron Club was recently well summed up by Arthur Krock, distinguished correspondent of the New York Times, himself a close friend of President Roosevelt, who wrote, among other things:

"The praise the governor is receiving must surprise him. Laurels are being tossed at him from all over the land for sportsmanship, dignity of bearing and perfect taste. This must surprise him, because for the first time in a long while, the governor was just being himself." Writing of Governor Landon's address at the dinner Mr. Krock added: "Here was a cultivated, well groomed, socially experienced American gentleman of the best type. All of this was no surprise to those who knew the governor or had even met him before. But some of it was a pleasing revelation to those who knew Mr. Landon only through the medium of the newspaper, news reel, radio or campaign pamphlet."

Nothing can more impress us with the fine spirit of American democracy than that less than two months after the close of a bitter presidential campaign, the victor and the vanquished should sit down in peace and friendship together at a banquet provided by newspaper men who had developed a program of good natured rivalry which was accepted by the "victims" with a true sense of sportsmanship. A comparison with the political situation in Russia, in Germany, in Italy and in unhappy Spain, is certainly revealing.

It may be added also that Governor Landon appears about to become one of those national figures who achieve growth rather than oblivion through defeat. Whether he will ever again be a candidate for office, only the future can tell. It is becoming evident, however, that his opportunity for public service is not ended.

COST OF RECKLESSNESS

There are two ways to look at the survey disclosing that American hospitals annually treat 10,000,000 sick and injured persons and for the care of these there are 900,000 hospital beds and a vast army of doctors, surgeons, nurses, students and attendants.

One can see in them the staggering economic loss they represent, terrible suffering and great sorrow, and the price people pay for carelessness and neglect. It is a depressing panorama of waste, suffering, recklessness, indifference and ignorance which shakes respect for humanity.

But there is another and more inspiring perspective. It translates these statistics into self-sacrifice, social service, humanitarianism, charity and philanthropy. It sees only the costly and efficient hospitals the generosity of individuals and society has provided for the care of the sick and injured the genius and labors of the surgeons and doctors who mend and cure 10,000,000 broken human bodies each year, and the service to their fellowmen of the thousands of nurses working in these institutions.

It is a disturbing thing that so many people need hospitalization in a country where the science of medicine, public health and sanitation, and disease prevention are in such a high state of development, but it is equally reassuring to know that none is denied hospital care.

If Hsueh-Liang Chang could be translated into American the chap would probably be another Kingfish.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOME LIFE IMPORTANT

There can be no substitute for the good home. Good parents can't escape parental responsibility. No nursery school or school for any other ages can serve best as a mere parking place for children. So I have said repeatedly in this column; so will I continue to say.

It was reassuring to me to hear Dr. George Stoddard, dean of the graduate school of Iowa university, say about the same—but more forcefully than I could say it—before the recent meeting of the biennial conference of the National Council of Parent Education, at Chicago. And Dean Stoddard has been America's more vigorous proponent of the nursery school for all children at public expense.

"The more the school takes away from the home," said he, "the more responsibility it leaves."

In such nursery schools as are conducted at Iowa university and like educational centers, where the education of young children is demonstrated, increasing emphasis year by year has been placed on education of the parents of these children. Leaders in the work with little children are growing more and more aware of the fact that ideal guidance of the child at school, except for his opportunities for social adaptation, is of little value, and even in some few instances may be harmful, unless the parents of these children learn to cultivate at home a wholesome family atmosphere, and to effect a good guidance program.

Escape Responsibility
For all too many mothers, having the little child in school merely means more opportunity for bridge and other social activities, and escape from parental responsibilities.

Ideally, Dr. Stoddard is right; practically he is wrong. By and large it is not at all apparent that the more the school takes from the home the more is left—oh, yes, it is left but with very few parents to take it.

It seems to me that the school has been very little concerned about home responsibilities, and has been over-confident of its ability to ignore the home. Merely to take more and more responsibility from the home without inducing the home to increase its own responsibility is to do more harm than good for wholesome family life.

Except for the underprivileged, I doubt whether the nursery school movement should go forward any faster than it can carry the home along with it.

Furthermore, most of our nursery schools seem to assume falsely that management of the young child at home should be as easy, and by the same methods as in the school. The difference may be as wide as the Atlantic.

PRaise IS GOOD COIN

One who rarely praises me praised something that I did.

Said it was good. I modestly protested. Said it was an accident. Said I'd probably stolen the idea from someone else. Got red from ear to ear. Was made profoundly happy by that rare praise.

I didn't believe the praise was justified, but I wanted to believe so. I hoped it was and it was good to know that someone, once at least, thought well of me.

A gay little flame began to burn within me. A fire that warmed me in winter and had the miraculous power of cooling me on the hottest day. A flame started by a bit of praise. Sweeter than luscious fruit. More welcome than a cool breeze in the desert. Something I'd done nothing to deserve but that was dearer to me than diamonds.

I had not fished for it, baited my hook to attain it; but it rose like a lovely mermaid from a green-white wave of life and smiled enchantingly upon me. A bit of praise. A compliment.

It cost that other person nothing, but it was riches to me. How silly, but how sweet. . . . And what a rare coin a compliment is. A coin that never loses its value, never depreciates, but is always a Fair Exchange. . . . And then, in a generous and friendly mood, I took the gold that compliment and made many other coins of it and looked around at people and found none who would refuse my Coin of Praise.

I found it was easy to praise—if I FELT like praising. If I was happy, I could find an excuse anywhere for putting praise into circulation among human beings and seeing them smile and seeing them flush and seeing them made happy by a bit of praise that was as tiny but as enduringly active as a speck of radium.

I'm telling you that in all the world there's no greater coin than praise. And it may be minted legally and without risk, in any human heart.

The sales tax is two per cent and when fifty cents is spent the tax is one cent. Everybody pays it which is very much correct.

"N-No," replied the young lady. "Ah! A clergerman's daughter?" suggested the shopman.

"N-No," was the young lady's hesitating reply. Then she leaned across the counter and spoke in a confidential whisper. "But if nothing happens, I shall soon be engaged to a seminary student."

China's Leader Speaks. Gives Philosophy Of Orient. Warns Against Imperialism.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Columnist

General Chiang Kai-Shek, the head of the Chinese central government (the Nanking government) who has been apologizing for having been abducted by Marshal Chang, was 50 on October 31. And there has just come to hand his birthday message to the Chinese nation.

A writer in the Manchester Guardian has gleaned its essentials. We quote from his summary and translation—a highly interesting "success" story.

From here on we quote from the Manchester Guardian article.

MIS BIRTHDAY GIFTS

On Oct. 31 General Chiang celebrated his fiftieth birthday, when, at his own request, all presents to him took the form of aeroplanes for the army. At the same time he published a message to the nation, extracts from which are given here. It is a strangely personal statement revealing something of his own life and much of the philosophy which he is trying to impress upon the nation under the name of the New Life movement. It is also a vivid picture of the importance of family life in the east, for in form it is a panegyric of his mother—a parable for the Chinese nation.

The message begins with this protestation: "Although I have devoted a good portion of my life to the cause of the revolution, yet before accomplishing one-hundredth part of the work I wish to do for my country I find myself at the age of fifty. Educated and maintained by the state for more than thirty years, I have manfully controlled myself in the army and dedicated myself to the cause of national revolution. During all these years what I ate, what I wore, and what other things I needed daily were derived from the state—in other words, from the sweat and toil of the people. My debt to the country is great indeed."

PRaise FOR MOTHER

The message then goes on to introduce the parable of his mother's life:

"Among these deep impressions is the indeleble memory of my mother, who endured so much in educating and bringing up a fatherless boy. Now that the trees by her grave have grown tall and thick I cannot but realize how little I have accomplished, and how I have failed to live up to the hopes she had cherished in me. While my mind is full of these disturbing thoughts, I choose at this time to make public the hardships and difficulties which my mother endured in bringing up her family, so that the world may better realize and appreciate the position of the helpless and poor. I also hope this may serve in some measure as an incentive for us to practice self-restraint and self-training and remain us of the great task of national salvation."

LEArNS OF CORRUPTION

Chiang describes how he was born in a little village in Chekiang, where his father and grandfather were farmers and where "through diligence and frugality they acquired a little wealth." When Chiang was only nine his father died, and his family fell into bad times under the "degenerate gentry and corrupt officials" of the Manchu regime. "Indeed, the miserable condition of my family at that time is beyond description. It was entirely due to my mother, her kindness and perseverance, that the family was saved from utter ruin."

"Her task was neither light nor enviable for every trifling she had to look after with her own hands. As a boy she loved me dearly, but her love was more than the love of an average mother; she was a strict disciplinarian. She never failed to take me to strict account whenever I was untidy or mischievous. Whenever I returned home she would ask me where I had been and what I had been doing, and when I returned from school she would question me on the lesson of the day. She taught me how to conduct and behave myself. She would make me do manual labor in order to train me physically. In a word, all her time and energy were devoted to my well-being.

"In my youth I was rather mischievous and full of youthful impatience, and would never endure instructions of great severity. I became as helpless as a child and was always ill-treated by other boys, and was even once expelled from the playing ranks."

MOTHER SIDES WITH HIM

Mother then describes how, first, his decision to go and study at the Tokyo Military Academy in Japan and then to join the revolutionary movement under Sun Yat-sen (the was than a Radical) was opposed by all his family except his mother. As a result of his political opinions and

UNCLE GOT NO HELP

My uncle was a godly man, to doing well inclined.

And yet he never quite achieved the goals he had in mind.

For every year, with Christmas gone, unto us all he'd say:

"I'm done with Lady Nicotine commencing New Year's Day! I'll toss my pipes upon the shelf and puff the bowl no more."

But Auntie always winked an eye—she'd heard that vow before.

He could not quit at Easter time nor smoking stop in June.

To quit tobacco in July he reckoned much too soon.

He liked his pipe too well at night when friends dropped in to call.

To part from it in early spring or summertime or fall,

But when December neared its end, "Resolved," he'd shout, "Am I

To give up smoking ever more!" and Auntie winked her eye.

On New Year's morning, resolute he'd put his pipes away,

And hide his old tobacco jar, his match box and his tray.

He'd clear the room of everything suggestive of a smoke.

And of to prove he meant his vow his favorite stem he broke.

"You think I can't!" he'd defiantly sometimes we'd hear him cry,

But Auntie smiled and looked at us, and merely winked an eye.

Poor, patient Auntie smiled and braved those yearly tantrums through.

For as the smokeless days went by my uncle grew ever srew.

He grumbled, whimpered, whined and snarled; down throats in fury leapt,

Slammed doors, banged tables with his fist and on the dog's tail stepped.

Till Auntie said: "If I were you a smoke I think I'd try."

"All right, but it's your fault," he'd say—and then she winked an eye.

Inaugural Not Simple Affair

President Opposed To Big Celebration But Committee Rules Otherwise

HUGE THROG IS EXPECTED

Central Press Washington Bureau 602 Times-Herald Bldg. By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—As the date (Jan. 20) for the inaugural ceremonies approaches it becomes more and more evident that President Roosevelt cannot soft-pedal his inauguration ceremonies even if he tries.

By all reasonable calculations a worse time of year for an outdoor show (mainly out of doors) hardly could have been chosen.

The president himself opposed much of a celebration, probably feeling that the weather was likely to be bad and fearing a consequently poor turnout, which naturally would be bad publicity for him. The procession will be far less spectacular than usual. The price of seats in the spectators' stands will be higher than ever before. Their occupants may suffer acutely from the cold, perhaps plus snow or a shivering rain. There will be no inaugural ball.

THOUSANDS COMING?

Very chilly water, in short, has been thrown on the whole affair in advance.

Indications, however, are that the inaugural crowd will be unprecedented. Hotels and boarding houses and outlying tourists' camps are booked up to their bathrooms and cots in corridors. Householders in Washington and its suburbs have rented every closet-ful of their available space at fancy figures. Best estimates are that at least 100,000 visitors will be here—which is approximately one-sixth of the District of Columbia's resident population.

Thousands will be unable to get spectators' seats.

F.D.R.'S VIEWS DISREGARDED

And all this in response to what amounted to an appeal from the White House for a "quiet inauguration!" It is fair to say that the inaugural committee, headed by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, did not indorse the plan to make the reinauguration a quiet affair. Neither did local business men, particularly hotel and restaurant managers. The committee has done its utmost to disregard the administration's push-button policy and advertise Washington as an ideal winter resort.

IT ISN'T as cold as Greenland, but a Greenlander would be excused for complaining of the weather on a bad day along the Potomac.

TOO MUCH FOR F. D. R.

President Roosevelt, with considerable meteorological experience in this section, foresees that this is a poor place for an open-air blow-out in January and did his best to discourage it.

Local enterprise and enthusiasm were too much for him. For one thing, he might have known that he would draw a record crowd by his announcement that he would be re-sworn in the face of a replica of Andrew Jackson's old home, the Hermitage.

He did not err in thinking that he would draw a crowd. If he erred, it was in under-estimating the crowd that he WOULD draw.

TWO IF'S—

Supposing that the weather man is kindly (and guesses right) it will be a wonderful splurge, President Roosevelt's apprehensions to the contrary notwithstanding.

If the weather man is otherwise there will be an enormous throng, but a deal of discomfort.

January 20 is no date for a presidential inauguration.

It is Senator George W. Norris' fault.

He amended the constitution, to fix inauguration upon an even worse climatic date than originally was hit upon accidentally.

On Court House Hill

Monday marked the first day of the new registration period when voters can put themselves on record as being affiliated with their favorite party. According to Thomas C. Edmunds, chief clerk of the registration commission, voters have but three choices now. They can register either Republican, Democratic or Non-Partisan. In the recent election such parties as the Prohibitionist, Socialist, Communist, Socialist-Labor and others failed to poll sufficient votes in the state to warrant their having a place on the ballot.

William R. Walton has just received his appointment as Mercantile Appraiser for Lawrence county for another year. He will probably be the last Republican appraiser for at least four years as the next auditor-general, Warren R. Roberts of Northampton county is a Democrat and will take office in May. Mr. Walton has served one year and the custom in the past has been to give the appointee two years.

The proposal of the Democratic leaders to make such offices as county treasurer, register and recorder, prothonotary and clerk of courts appointive instead of elective is meeting with mixed emotions on the Hill. The Republicans are against it and the Democrats are highly in favor of it.

The plan would be to pass a proposed amendment to the constitution in the present session of the General Assembly. It would have to pass two sessions and go to the people. However it is difficult to see how it could be done for some time as an amendment has to pass two sessions before it goes to the people, and the nearest year for voting on amendments is 1938. The next is 1943.

Republicans argue that the plan is a step further towards a centralized government, that it denies the theory of the Democratic party, that of home rule and is another step towards building up a huge political machine. The party in power would be in elegant shape to use the offices as means of war chest funds and patronage. Further it is argued that it would deny the people the right to say who should hold the offices mentioned, and would give one politician or a small group of politicians more power than the American theory of government intends. An argument the Democrats offer is that it would make a shorter ballot at election time.

In 1936, 3151 instruments of all kinds were recorded in the office of Register and Recorder William R. Hanna. In 1935 but 2802 were recorded but many of these were H. O. L. C. mortgages. The increased number of 1936 seems to indicate more solid business transactions than in the previous year.

A one cent raise in bid took a property at the sheriff's sales on Monday. A property was put up and started at $500. It was raised by hundreds to $900, then $875.40 and the high bid was made at $875.41. This represented the money against the property.

A charter for the Workingmen's Social club has been registered in the office of William R. Hanna, Register and Recorder.

A note given in October 1917, figured in the second opinion. The case is that of A. W. Black for use of J. W. Hartwell vs. C. F. Simpson and James Gilliland. Black petitioned to open a judgment which he had confessed previously. The court refused the petition on the grounds that it was evident the note had not been paid.

The third was the petition arising out of the damage suit for $711.76 filed by Leon W. Huff against Leonard B. Reinhard and Reuben Rubenson trading and doing business as the Castle Garage. The defendants petitioned for a more specific statement of claim and the petition was granted.

Three opinions were filed by Judge W. Walter Braham on Monday. The first was in the petition of the Firestone Auto and Supply company, claimants, to lift a sheriff's levy against a car which had been in the possession of Samuel E. Cutler and Florence E. Cutler. The levy against it had been made by the Mahoning Savings and Loan company against the Cutlers and the C. I. T. Corporation, interpleader claimants. The court refused the petition.

Partition Commissioners T. A. Gilkey, F. A. Hover and Ivor V. Davis have returned an appraisal of the estate of the late Lydia Floyd, following a petition in partition of Thomas Floyd and John Floyd. Mrs. Floyd died in 1921 and left as heirs the two men named and also Martha Young and Lydia Johnston. In the meantime Martha Young has died and left as heirs Lillian Young McCreery and Rebecca Young Earl. The purpose of the partition is to divide real estate in order that each heir may get the portion bequeathed him.

Improved VapoRub-Way to Relieve Colds

Mother Uses...the 3 Minute VapoRub Massage-to Relieve Colds

VICKS VAPORUB

Now see how easy it is to relieve colds using Vicks VapoRub this improved way!

At bedtime, just give the throat, chest, and back (between and below the shoulder blades) a 3-minute massage with VapoRub. Then spread a thick layer over the chest and cover with a warm cloth. This thick layer, with the massage, lengthens and strengthens VapoRub's action during the night.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two direct ways: (1) It acts direct through the skin, like a poultice or plaster. (2) At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in direct to the irritated air-passages.

This combined poultice-and-vapor action continues for hours, clearing the air-passages of throat and chest. It loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—eases the cough—helps break congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over. Try it.

Here's for a Happy New Year!

Artists Are Not Jealous

Are Most Clannish Of Creative Professions And Almost Always Pal Together

RATES ACTORS MOST JEALOUS

(By O. O. McIntyre)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—There's a fixed notion that artists, being so emotionally keyed, express the greatest jealousy in their ranks of the creative kith. The fact is they are traditional birds of feather always flocking together and their staunch friendships are seldom outside their own circle.

Visit an artists studio and you will generally find a fellow artist. As a rule they segregate such as those who work in the Bank, in the White and Leon Gordon. Always together. Indeed there's a firm in West 67th street, Artists' social clubs rarely die.

O. O. McIntyre The Hotel des Artists is one of the few successful co-operative apartment houses.

When Dean Cornwell goes on a bicycle or river journey to strange lands he is always accompanied by some fellow craftsman. Howard Chandler Christy's studio is a rendezvous for artists from all over. H. T. Webster and the late Clare Briggs were cronies. Herb Roth and Ray Rohn, firm friends.

So are George McManus and Jimmy Swinnerton. An American trio of painters well known to the Paris boulevards is Jo Davidson, Gilbert White and Leon Gordon. Always together. Indeed there's a firm in West 67th street, Artists' social clubs rarely die.

If asked to name the sindest streak of professional jealousy I should select stars of the stage. Not only toward fellow stars but often toward aspirants in the company who show unusual ability. There are a number of instances of players cast in the same play not speaking. And every producer knows the vexations that beset billing. The slightest typographical trend that the star is not the whole show may touch off a tantrum that holds up production. Or even side-track it permanently. I once saw the import Delysia in a honey of a temper and was it an act!

Ziegfeld was the most energetic of the actor baiters. From the time he signed a contract, he kept them in turmoil. He had a theory a player was best when worried about his job. And he had an uncanny panache for putting one against another in his shows so they almost broke their necks putting across their lines. He always rehearsed a Folies or a musical comedy up to the opening night curtain with members of the company completely exhausted. But in every instance they would snap out of it and give a crack performance. It was like the pain stimuli that so often motivates genius.

While the Ziegfeld school of producing was successful, so was the opposite as expressed by Charles Frohman. "C. F." treated his players as the rarest of gentle folk and friends. Never did he lift his voice at rehearsals and was particularly careful to prevent fatigue. On the morning of an opening he would send the star and leading players little hand-written notes filled with gracious compliments and the assurance that whatever the critics' verdict, he was satisfied they had done their best.

New York seldom has a sidewalk fist fight save those blurry, shadow boxings of Bowery soaks on Saturday night. But there was a lulu near the automat the other mid-night. Out of a taxi hopped a middle-aged, determined man who began biffing the go-rolles out of a fellow escorting a lady. He must have knocked him down five times before the victim took to his heels. Then the victor, turning to his waiting taxi, said to the lady: "And don't you ever come home again."

Random rumination: In running through many pages of the treasured Oxford Book of Verse, it strikes me poetry is largely sighing. The dressing up of a moan. A great poem, like the Matterhorn or other enormous peaks, may at first examination appear colorless and on second become impressive beyond words. And the other night, reading the witches in "Macbeth," I came upon "Thrice and once the hedgehog whined," and I can't get it out of my head.

It also strikes us—we are up to our armpits in philosophizing today—a visit to El Morocco, The Stork club, Longchamps and other celebrity caches, that too many nobodies are receiving salvos these days. It is getting so almost every body poises at the entrance, awaiting a chord in G!

I frequently wonder if others on their first Pullman journey were impressed by the worldly drummer who took the used towel and dried the metal basin. That has always seemed somehow as about the most cosmopolitan of all gestures.

Convict-Goods Shipment Law Is Held Valid

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A stunning blow was delivered to interstate commerce in convict-made goods Monday when the supreme court held constitutionally the Roosevelt administration law prohibiting shipment of convict-made goods into a state in violation of its laws.

Decision of the high court was rendered on appeal of the Kentucky Whip and Collar Co., manufacturing harness at a factory close to the Eddyville, Ky. prison with convicts to force the Illinois Central railroad to accept shipments of goods.

Several of the policemen who have worked several days during January, although the pension ordinance called for their retirement January 1, 1936, will probably receive their wages. Controller Wimer was asked yesterday if he would hold up any checks drawn to their favor. He maintained that it was not the duty of the policeman himself to say when he should retire and indicated that were a warrant drawn in favor of the retiring officers for their work in January, he would honor the same. The men who were placed on pension served a total of approximately 120 years police service.

There is a rumor current in city hall that a resolution may be introduced in council whereby city hall employees and other persons who have not had to work six full days each week, must do so in the future. Of course, as yet this is rumor but once the rumor factory wheels whirl the rumor gains momentum. The custom has been to permit persons to have Saturday afternoon to themselves. Whether the report is mere rumor or fact will remain to be seen.

When council convened in the city building Monday a contract was approved for the purchase of a 2 1/2 ton truck for the use of the police department at a price of $2,092.86. The truck is to be delivered within two weeks and purchase finally made when the city inspects and approves the truck. The truck will be assigned to the department of streets.

Council at the suggestion of Councilman B. F. Butler instructed the city solicitor to draft an ordinance whereby the city will take over the task of refilling excavations. It was reported during council that the city has a compressor, employees and is in a position to do this properly. The streets director said that the utility companies and plumbers are not equipped to do the work as it should be done and as an example pointed to the many excavations in Ray street which has practically ruined that street.

Council approved payrolls for the last half of December. The city employees will be paid today.

AROUND CITY HALL

During council session at the city building yesterday Finance Director James L. Fink indicated he would Thursday recommend that the audit of the city legal department records, 1924-1936, inclusive, be continued. However, the continuation may depend upon the expense. Fink proposes to set a period and cost. No doubt Roy McMillen, present auditor, will be continued at a rate of $5.00 per day and given the assistance of a girl clerk at the same rate paid city hall clerks, which is $2.20, per day. It was brought out several days ago that were the city to employ an auditing firm the cost of conducting such would prove stupendous. Relative to the audit, it was explained by City Solicitor William Coburn that Controller Earl Wimer was responsible only for the audit of Attorney Robert White's last term, which was from May 1932 to May 1936. During the council conversations, Mayor Charles E. McGrath pointed out that other councils should have had audits conducted. Not one city hall official has inferred that anything is wrong with the accounts or records of Mr. White who in a letter to officials said he would be willing to turn over records and receipts which he maintains are his personal property, providing they are given into the custody of some responsible person. He pointed out that one change made on any record could complicate matters, hence his desire to have all his records kept safe. White also offered to let city officials go to his legal office and copy off records. Former Controller Phil Greer, informally recently he conducted an audit in 1928, it having been compiled in reports. The entire situation was brought up, it was indicated by a desire of the insurance company to have their bond for the former solicitor released.

It developed during a council discussion in city hall Monday that check authorized by council last August for $25.56, in favor of John Z. Street, has not been honored by City Controller Earl Wimer. When asked about this yesterday Wimer said that Street was employed by the WPA in the city engineer's office at the time he was said to have performed the duties of City Engineer Glenn Troop, who was ill. Wimer said that under his interpretation of the law he could not legally honor the warrant. He asked the city solicitor's office for an opinion but maintained he has not yet received a decision.

Several of the policemen who have worked several days during January, although the pension ordinance called for their retirement January 1, 1936, will probably receive their wages. Revival Services Of Nazarene Church Nightly This Week

Large congregations are attending the revival services at the Nazarene Tabernacle, Falls and Beaver streets, which were opened Sunday and will continue every night this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Washington sang at Sunday school and at both morning and night preaching services, on Sunday, and again last night. Evangelist J. A. Rodgers delivered excellent sermons.

Services Opened At Dewey Avenue

The special revival series started Sunday evening at the Free Methodist church on Dewey avenue will continue each night this week with the exception of Saturday.

Rev. J. B. Bartlebaugh, the pastor-evangelist, at the opening service, preaching on the general theme "The Holy Spirit in a Skeptical Age" used the text "And He That Was Dead Sat Up and Began to Speak." He compared this text with Herbert Spencer's definition of life. Each night this week he will use the same text.

Body Of Drowning Victim Recovered

Body Of John T. Amos, Of Beaver, Missing Since November 10, Is Found

The body of John T. Amos, a former New Castle resident who was drowned on November 10, was recovered at noon Monday twenty miles from the point near Beaver where he had disappeared.

Mr. Amos had held a government position on the Ohio river and was retired last July 1. On November 10, as an accommodation for a friend, he returned to work for two days only, and was drowned after being on duty about an hour.

He was born in Hadenford, England, son of William and Martha Amos, and came to this country at an early age. He had resided in New Castle until about 22 years ago when he went to Beaver. There he married Belle McCullough, who survives, and was a member of the Vanport Presbyterian church.

Besides his wife he leaves one brother, William Amos, of Girard, Pa., and three sisters, Mrs. Florence Garrett, of Erie, Mrs. Mae Cooper, of Gary, Indiana, and Mrs. Alice McCracken, of this city. Funeral services and burial will take place at Beaver, Wednesday afternoon.

Proof that liquor stimulates the imagination is found in the fact that when a man takes a drink his wife imagines almost anything.

Arrest Suspects At Williamsport In Big Robbery

New York Officers Arrive
To Question Pair In $17,000 Robbery And Murder

(International News Service)
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 5.—Two alleged New York bandits who police say are implicated in a $17,000 New York robbery and the subsequent murder of a member of their gang, were arrested by local police here today for metropolitan officers.

The suspects, police said, gave their names as Isadore Lidshitz, 37, and Mike Kelsey, 22. Officers said Lidshitz had admitted participation in the robbery.

Question Suspects

An hour after the men were picked up in a local restaurant, four New York police officers arrived and took charge of the questioning of the pair. Both came here immediately after the store holdup last Saturday night, authorities reported. The murder victim whose death officers were probing was Fred Kindler, who was shot to death in his room following the holdup, married a Williamsport girl about 10 months ago.

It was this circumstance that prompted police to watch for the gang to return here. Lidshitz, officers reported, received treatment at the Williamsport hospital for hand injuries and spent the night with Kelsey at a local hotel. When the two went to a nearby restaurant for breakfast about 9:30 o'clock, they were taken into custody by Detective Captain Joseph Schumacher and Louis Hartman, a local patrolman.

Officers said they found three revolvers and $65 in the hotel room.

GERMANY MAKES NEW DEMAND FOR RELEASE OF CARGO

waters in the same manner as former Kaiser Wilhelm once blockaded the Venezuelan coast. This was described as a "pacific blockade," but the United States took the attitude such a blockade could not apply to foreign shipping, with the result it became a thoroughgoing war blockade.

According to naval experts here, a "pacific blockade" in Spain would call for a declaration by the German government defining the blockaded zone and the nationalities of ships to be seized on sight. This declaration, it was said, could be limited to vessels of the Spanish loyalist regime or include one or more other nationalities.

(Editor's Note: This German version is at variance with the internationally-accepted code governing "pacific blockades," which provides for detention or sequestration of neutral vessels violating the blockade, but absolutely prevents confiscation under any circumstances.)

In the event a blockade is decided upon, certain German naval forces in Spanish waters will be reinforced and seaplanes will be used in an effort to bottle up the Spanish fleet completely.

The ultimatum, delivered by Chancellor Hitler's admiral aboard the cruiser Koenigsberg, was accepted as a declaration from the German government. The latter could not address itself direct to Valencia because of non-recognition of the loyalist regime in Spain.

Shocks Europe

Shocking Europe with what was considered in foreign quarters a threat or virtual open intervention on the rebel side, a government communique in Berlin said: "The admiral of the German naval forces in Spanish waters aboard the cruiser Koenigsberg directed the following demand to the rebel rulers:

"Following our seizure of the Aragon and Martia Jonquera, return of the remainder of the cargo and passenger of the Palos is again demanded in return for the release of the above ships.

"As the date for return, the forenoon of January 8 is hereby named.

"Should the surrender not take place within three days—that is, up to January 8 at 8 a. m.—the steamers and cargoes will be utilized by the German government in settling accounts with the government of General Francisco Franco, which is recognized by the German government.

"In case of a repetition of such acts of piracy against German merchantmen, the German government will be compelled to take further measures."

The pocket battleship Graf Spee has already deposited the Aragon in a rebel port, awaiting the outcome of the ultimatum, it was understood.

In spite of the fresh menaces of the German fleet and the threat of the Koenigsberg's big guns off Bilbao, neither Bilbao authorities nor the Spanish leftist government, it was stated here, have bowed to the Reich's demand that German shipping, wherever bound, be left alone.

High political and military authorities, according to opinion expressed in Berlin, are convinced that the Spanish leftists are desperately striving to push provocation against Germany to a point where the big powers must inevitably become involved.

The loyalist Spaniards' object, Berlin said, is to humiliate Hitler publicly to the extent where his claim to be the "bulwark against Bolshevism in western Europe" will collapse because of his shattered prestige in the Spanish situation. Hitler, according to reliable sources, therefore is adamant to all pleas to abandon Spain entirely.

the civil wars of the period his life was often in danger, and he was not long able to help her in the care of the family. "For a period of sixteen years—that is, from the time I lost my father at the age of nine until I was twenty-five years old—my mother had never spent a day free from domestic difficulties. Though often anxious about my fugitive life during that period she remained persistently calm and self-confident and regarded the reconstruction of our home as her only responsibility. Once she said to me:

"My only conviction is that a fatherless child like you must be carefully brought up before we can expect any success in this world. Our house must be carried on by an heir who can keep untarnished the good reputation of our family."

WARNS AGAINST MIGHT

He finishes with a warning that China must follow the line of her own destiny, neither imitating "the superficialities of the west" nor copying "the doctrine of might, followed by imperialistic nations."

"The eight great virtues—loyalty, filial piety, kindness, love, faithfulness, righteousness, peace and justice—are in accordance with the just spirit and time-honored characteristics of the Chinese race. Filial piety is particularly emphasized in the testaments of our late leader (Sun Yat-sen)."

"In practicing the virtue of filial piety we must strictly observe two fundamental codes of conduct. The one is to do honor to our parents, and the other is to conduct ourselves without disgrace. In order to do honor to our parents we must endeavor to improve ourselves and follow the teachings of our forefathers. To conduct ourselves without disgrace we must be fair and honest in our daily dealings, in order not to bring humiliation upon our parents. The Chinese nation has a very long history and a glorious civilization. No nation can ruin us unless we first ruin ourselves."

ESPOSITO BEING RETURNED HERE

and has four children. It is said that he has been a police officer for a mining company in that region and in his work as an officer found that one of the men in his district was wanted in Connecticut for a crime. He turned the man over to the authorities and apparently out of spite the convict turned over information he had on Esposito to the attorney-general's office in Pennsylvania.

Old Indictment
An indictment laid in 1906 will be dusted off and Esposito will be tried under that. Dominick Caio was indicted jointly with Esposito at the time and was tried but acquitted. In his testimony he blamed Esposito for the crime. It is reported.

Both Romeo and Esposito had been in the county but a short time. It is said that as a member of the government police in Italy Romeo killed a relative of Esposito's and later came to America. Esposito is said to have followed and met Romeo in Buffalo. Later they came to West Pittsburg to work and the three, Esposito, Romeo and Caio, were shot and killed in a dying declaration is said to have implicated Esposito in the crime.

About the only people who were acting in official capacities then in Lawrence County who are now alive are J. Lee McFate who was then the county detective under District Attorney Joseph V. Cunningham and Mrs. Mary Conti who was and is yet the court interpreter. Mrs. Conti was at the bedside of Romeo when he died but her memory is not quite clear as to what he said.

The notes of testimony of A. Darley Mornes, then court stenographer are still available it was learned today, but Mr. Mornes is dead and no stenographer would want to translate the notes and swear absolutely that his translation was what Mr. Mornes intended, every court stenographer having certain signs and abbreviations peculiar to himself. Judge William E. Porter who was on the bench at the time is also dead.

Esposito will be kept in the Lawrence County jail until the March term of court when he will be tried. It is not known definitely whether Attorney-General Charles J. Margiotti will ask permission of the Lawrence county court to have a special deputy sent in to aid District Attorney Mont L. Alley in the trial of the case.

Questioned In Harrisburg

Harrisburg, Jan. 5.—Gentle-faced and mild-mannered, Rocco Esposito, returned from far away Canada by the long arm of the law to stand prosecution for the slaying of Francesco Romeo 30 years ago in New Castle, sat quietly in the office of Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti here today and told the story of his fiction-like life.

"I hope they won't be hard on me," the 56-year-old man sighed to the attorney general.

"So long ago, so long ago," he murmured in Italian, "and I never was a bad man."

"I have done right ever since."

"I'm going to starve myself if they don't let me go back to my family," he threatened with a demeanor that belied his intentions. "After 30 years I could not stand it in prison."

After talking with the attorney general, Esposito was turned over to Sheriff Edward Pritchard of Lawrence county and deputy Ben Hartland who drove him back to New Castle and to the scene of the alleged "vendetta" slaying.

An interesting angle of the strange case was that all its principals were Italian. The victim was Italian, the alleged slayer is an Italian, Frank Costa, the state department of justice agent who tracked Esposito down in Canada and the attorney general who sat and listened to his story, are also of Italian descent.

Spanish Loyalists Shoot Down Planes

(International News Service)
PARIS, Jan. 5.—Three tri-motored German warplanes, flying for the Spanish insurgents, were shot down by loyalist pursuit planes near Bilbao, according to an official Bilbao communique, the newspaper Le-Temps reported today in a bayonne dispatch.

One of the German planes fell in flames at Basurto, the dispatch said and the pilot "baled out" by parachute.

AT CHILDREN'S HOME

Illness at the Margaret L. Henry Children's home on Friendship street had decreased considerably today.

Miss Margaret L. Henry, matron, reporting that the sickness did check the youngsters' holiday festivities somewhat, said "all of our cases are now clearing up." The more serious cases cleared up in December and now a few of the younger tots are being treated for severe colds.

MEET PA BAXTER

He was born on Cape Cod, cut his teeth on a marlin spike, ran away to sea as a boy, and now is back on dry land with a fund of nautical yarns a mile long. ("Nautical, but nice," he calls 'em.) He divides his time between helping Ma with her food shoppe and antique business, and inventing devious ways for making work easier, if not for getting out of it altogether.

HERE'S MA BAXTER

She has a heart as big as the kitchen range on which she makes those delicious clam fritters, those baked lobsters, and those extraordinary pies for which she's famous all up and down Cape Cod. In fact, visitors to the Cape will tell you she's the world's champion cook. Ma is a dear old soul, active in church work, and always at the command of any one who needs help. You'll like her.

And they're usually all rehearsing together, which is why Horace spends so much time at Pa's.

Rivers-Harbors And Flood Control Sums To Total $252,796,450

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Federal expenditure of $252,796,450 for improvement and maintenance of rivers and harbors and flood control projects during the fiscal year starting July 1, was recommended today in the annual report of Major General Edward M. Markham, Army chief of engineers.

The report, made available to congress today, called for appropriations totalling $140,150,150 for waterways improvements and $112,646,300 for flood control work.

An additional $39,718,770 was recommended for maintenance work on the various projects.

Slightly Higher
The total sum which the chief of engineers said can be "profitably expended" on the projects compares with $225,558,456 spent during the fiscal year ending June, 1936.

A recommendation for expenditure of $35,041,000 for improvement of waterways on the Mississippi river between the Missouri river and Minneapolis, with an additional sum of $1,969,000 for maintenance, topped the list of projects.

Other major recommendations included:

Great Lakes to Hudson river waterway $10,000,000.

New York and New Jersey channels $5,000,000 with $118,000 additional for maintenance.

Chesapeake and Delaware canal $3,650,000 and $480,000 maintenance.

Kanawha river, West Virginia $2,480,000 and $200,000 maintenance.

New York harbor $1,200,000 and $80,000 maintenance.

Open channel work on Ohio river $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 for maintenance.

Of the total recommended for flood control, $56,531,800 was asked for use on the 1936 flood control act and a total of $55,000,000 for the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

Other major recommendations included:

No Action As Yet On Canal Report

Chief Of Army Engineers Says
Little Cooperation Is Given
By Local Interests

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—In his annual report to congress today the chief of the army engineers advised that body no action on the proposed Beaver-Mahoning canal was contemplated until a survey for the entire project to Lake Erie had been completed.

In his report, the chief engineer recommended appropriation of funds for projects to be carried on during the fiscal year of 1938, commencing next July first. He did not, however, recommend any appropriation for the Beaver-Mahoning project.

The chief engineer advised congress that little had been done by local interests to provide that co-operation which must be forthcoming before any federal money can be spent on the project. He said the only step in this direction has been the signing of agreements by local authorities to operate the Millen reservoir under supervision of the chief engineer.

Says Motorist Is Responsible If Tires Are Bad

Chief Justice Kephart Says
Motorist Should Know When Tires Are Too Thin

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—Pennsylvania motorists are paying closer attention to the condition of their tires these days.

They have been warned to do so by chief justice of the state supreme court John W. Kephart in a recent opinion which declares that a motorist cannot escape liability for damages resulting from an accident by pleading that he did not know his tires were defective.

"Any ordinary individual," says the chief justice, "whether a car owner or not, knows that when a tire is worn through to its fabric its further use is dangerous and it should be removed. All drivers must be held to a common knowledge of these facts. An owner or an operator cannot escape simply because he says he did not know. He must know.

REBELS IN NEW DRIVE TO ENCIRCLE MADRID

Claim Loyalists' Losses Are Heavy

Two Thousand Killed In Past Four Days Is Report Of Rebels

GERMAN UNITS AID IN ATTACK

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Jan. 5.—Two thousand loyalist troops have been killed in the last four days, Gen. Queipo de Llano broadcast today from Seville as the second big rebel drive to take Madrid smashed over new ground northwest of the capital.

A double offensive, swinging in on Madrid in two wide-wing movements, will soon result in encirclement of the loyalist defense outposts in the Escorial region, Gen. De Llano predicted.

With fast mobile German units leading the attack, the insurgents plowed past Mahadahonda, strategically located astride the Madrid-Escorial highway, and set up a 16-mile line immediately northwest of Madrid from Aravaca through Villanueva del Pardillo to Valdemorillo. But, loyalist sources said, their offensive cost them heavily in dead and wounded.

Rebel Host Moving Northward
This vast rebel host is moving northward around Madrid with the intention of joining a simultaneous southward advance of a column from the Guadarrama mountains.

The second arm of the pincers already threatens government positions on the road between Torrejón de Ardoz and Colmenar, northeast of Madrid, rebel sources said. When the two points come together, El Escorial, which has withstood frontal attacks for the duration of the war, will be isolated.

Using equipment that, if they were not meeting with ferocious resistance, would enable them to move ahead at 40 miles an hour, trained German legions are leading the Mahadahonda sector attack. Right behind them come waves of Spanish Foreign Legionnaires and Moors, supported by tanks, artillery and airplanes.

Efforts to evacuate non-combatants from Madrid were accelerated today after the most deadly air raid yet suffered by the bomb-pocked city. At least 100 were killed and 200 wounded when 18 German-made planes rained death on what had, up to then, been the "neutral zone."

Four bombs fell within 200 yards of the United States embassy.

License Tags Sold For 7,855 Dogs During 1936

Dogs as house pets have been increasing in great numbers in Lawrence county during the past year, according to records in the county treasurers' office.

In 1935, 6,465 licenses were granted for dogs in this county. In 1936 there was an increase of 1,390, the number sold during the past year being 7,855. According to Joseph Hartland, county treasurer, the county expects to dispose of about 9,000 licenses during 1937. He also states that it is estimated that there are about 10,000 dogs in Lawrence county at the present time.

The fee charged for dog licenses is $1.10 for males and $2.10 for female dogs. Of this amount the State of Pennsylvania receives $1 on each male license and $2 on each female license. Lawrence county is given ten cents from each license sold to dog owners.

The money derived from this source is used by the state to pay claims made by persons who have had chickens, sheep, cattle, or other game killed by roving dogs. Reports of any such occurrence is made to John Mateer, Kittanning, Pa., within 24 hours and he immediately investigates the loss and reports the claim to the state. Mateer is an inspector for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Industry, and has as his territory, Armstrong, Butler and Lawrence counties.

At the present time the new license tags have been held up at Harrisburg and will not be in New Castle until January 15. Treasurer Hartland states however, that he will take money now for these tags and when they arrive he will mail them to the purchaser.

Retired Policemen Have Record Of Many Years Of Honorable Service

Having been retired by city council on pension yesterday, four members of the city police department, J. Ed Elder, Cyrus C. Horner, Nick Paella and George Wyman today can look over their careers, which if tallied would find them serving the citizens a total of approximately 120 years. Each of them has had an honorable and memorable career, and if anyone were to pry deeply into the service they gave the city would find that each of them participated in thrilling episodes without fear and with a desire only of serving the city of New Castle.

To C. C. Horner, who served as chief of police and detective during various terms, and also retiring as a detective, goes the distinction of serving the city longest. In actual police work he has a record of 34 years in the police bureau and three years service in the health department. He was born in 1865 and first entered the city service in 1896 and served part of 1905. He worked in the health bureau for three years, returned to the police bureau in 1908 and left in 1911. However, he returned to the police department in 1916 and served until retired yesterday, which gave him a record of approximately 37 years in city service.

J. Ed Elder, who served as a patrolman, chief of police and later as lieutenant, a position he held at his retirement, owns the record of having served the most continuous years. He entered the service in 1909 and excepting for illness or vacation he worked continuously since that time, or about 28 years.

George Wyman, a patrolman, in point of service, is next to Horner, having served 33 years. He entered the police service in 1902, left in 1913, re-entered the service in 1916, and since has been steadily employed, excepting for illness and vacations. Recently the patrolman was hurt while on duty and has been off duty.

Nick Paella came to the city police department as a patrolman in 1916 and has served continuously since that time. Like his colleagues, he participated in some police work that called for fearlessness and he, too, saw the department grow from horse and buggy operations to radio and fast autos.

In the early days of Horner, Elder and Wyman, it was not uncommon for them to walk several miles to make an arrest and when the "customer" was too intoxicated to walk they had to commandeer either a wheelbarrow or a horse and wagon.

Telephones were not numerous in those days and it was not until later that the call box system by telephone was installed. Later came the Gamewell system, the Radio to cruiser cars and a fleet of machines, a motorcycle, fingerprint bureau and pulmotors with which to save life.

Today they are through as policemen, but the fact remains that each of them retired with honor.

State Benefits By P.W.A. Work

Resources And Mills Gain As Result Of National Building Program

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—Skilled and unskilled workmen producing raw products and fabricating them into finished output of industry have profited more from the PWA program in Pennsylvania than any other state, according to a report today by the Public Works Administration.

The report said in part: "Pennsylvania led the states in benefiting from the work-creating PWA construction programs for the principal reason that its area contained the most natural resources, mills and factories where PWA building materials such as steel, cement, lumber, machinery, tile, glass, etc., are fabricated. On the same basis, and for the same reason Ohio, New York and Illinois followed in sequence. Nevada and North Dakota trailed the list because most of the PWA building materials used for projects within their confines must be imported; they have few raw or fabricated products to send out to other states."

The PWA estimated Pennsylvania workmen had gotten about seven forty-eighths of the labor afforded such workmen the country over by the PWA program.

BUST THAT COLD WIDE OPEN

Don't Merely Check It With Half-Way Measures!

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in seriousness. A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold."

Treat a cold for what it is—an internal infection. Therefore, internal treatment.

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all."

It is internal in effect and it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, an important step in overcoming a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

These are the four effects a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. It has been proven by more than 40 years of use.

When you feel a cold coming on—don't wait—don't procrastinate—but go right to your druggist and get a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

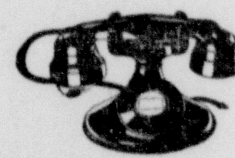

Say "No" to substitutes!

MAGICIAN

"I'm a long distance operator. I don't know how many thousand calls I've handled, but I still get a kick out of it. Here I sit at my switchboard. You, in your home or office, decide that you want to talk to someone who may be many miles away. I say a few words, make a few simple movements with my hands and—Presto!—here's your party! Is it any wonder that I sometimes feel like a magician?"

Business men, too, have found magic in long distance service. Magic that gets more business done in shorter time at less cost. They use long distance to make appointments, secure orders, speed shipments, answer complaints, issue instructions—to make all kinds of business contacts. Long distance has many uses that you should know about. It has obtained results that may amaze you. Let us tell you about them. Call the Business Office.

Resume Classes At Westminster

Students And Teachers Return From Long Holiday Vacation

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 5.—Text-books were dusted off and foreheads wrinkled with solemn thinking today as Westminster College students returned to the campus after one of the longest Christmas vacation in years, 16 days.

Theatre director, attended a dramatics convention in St. Louis. Coach George Roark travelled to New York City to attend various athletic conventions, among them, the Association of the Collegiate Coaches of America. Professor C. W. McKee, business administration head, attended meetings of economic groups in Chicago. Wallace Biggs, News Bureau head, spent the holidays in Chicago doing newspaper research in the Chicago Tribune library.

No college events are scheduled for the first week of college following vacation, except the Westminster-Slippery Rock basketball game on the Teachers' floor, Saturday night. Only three weeks of classes remain before the end of the first semester, January 30, with a three-day period of registration intervening until the second semester opens Wednesday, February 3.

T. V. A. Rivalry Cuts Budget

Wilkie Says C. And S. Co.,
Construction Has Been Cut $17,000,000

SALES ARE HIT BY COMPETITION

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Construction budgets of $41,000,000 for operating companies in the Commonwealth and Southern group of public utility companies in 1937 were revealed by Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the corporation, in a statement contrasting the situation of subsidiaries operating in the area of the Tennessee Valley Authority with that of other affiliates operating in North Central states. The amount is $17,000,000 less than the budgets of $58,000,000 originally proposed for the same companies, a shrinkage attributed by Mr. Wilkie to the effects of government competition on Southern properties of the system.

The system is made up of six Southern and five Northern companies, with approximately the same number of electric customers served by each group, Mr. Wilkie reports. "The Southern companies are located in the Tennessee Valley area, under threat of government tax-subsidized competition, while the Northern group is free of this interference," he says.

The Northern affiliates in two years have been able to refund more than $250,000,000 of their senior securities at prevalent low interest rates, while the Southern companies have been wholly unable so to refund, under the impending threat of competition and duplication by the TVA. Mr. Wilkie asserts: "If the Southern companies were able to refund their bonds and preferred stock on a similar basis, he adds, it would save them more than $6,000,000 a year in charges, or approximately one-half of the entire revenue received annually from their 400,000 domestic electric customers."

Contrasts In Budgets

"Construction budgets adopted for 1937 reveal a significant contrast," Mr. Wilkie says. "The Northern companies have budgeted approximately $25,000,000 for new construction, among which will be a $2,800,000 plant by the Pennsylvania Power Company, near New Castle, Pa. In the South the figure is $16,000,000, although the construction requirements there are about $33,000,000. This is a direct reflection of the difficulties in financing created by the threat of uncontrolled competition."

"Thus, the absence of a solution of the problem created by the TVA—a solution long sought by this company—is a deterrent to further rate reductions, a bar to employment of additional men in construction work and a prime cause of depreciation in the value of the property of security holders. It is to be hoped that this problem may be worked out during the year 1937 so that rates may be further reduced in the South, more men may be put to work and security holders may be protected."

Plan To Dedicate Two Improvements On Perry Highway

Formal Dedication Ceremonies
To Be Held At Zelienople
And Wexford

Formal dedication of the recently improved greater Perry Highway will be held Wednesday, January 6, with the program opening at Zelienople at 3:30 p. m. Another program will be at Wexford and then the entire assemblage will gather at "The Pines" for a victory dinner at 6 p. m.

pected to attend the opening exercises, Secretary of Highways Warren VanDyke, Chief Engineer T. H. Temple, and other state officials as well as county officials from both Butler and Allegheny county will be in attendance and will assist in the dedication.

The day's festivities are in charge of a committee from the Perry Highway Improvement Association. Press C. Dowler, president of the association is general chairman. Paul H. Dillman, secretary of the North Side Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, and J. G. Shaw, publisher of the North Side Ledger, and Charles S. Passavant III, and J. E. Rine-smith of Zelienople compose the arrangements committee.

Two recent improvements to the highway will be dedicated and formally opened. The first will be the new section of Zelienople, which eliminates the hazardous curves through Harmony, by taking a direct northerly route through Zelienople over a huge concrete bridge spanning the B. & O. railroad and Connequeness Creek, and some two miles of new concrete road. The other improvement is from Wexford Allegheny county, south to Highland, a distance of approximately four miles, which section was straightened and widened to a four-lane highway.

Syndicalism Law Unconstitutional

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The supreme court today held unconstitutional the Oregon criminal syndicalism law as invoked to send Dirk DeJonge, communist, to prison for seven years for assisting in the conduct of a communist meeting.

The decision was based upon the Oregon supreme court's interpretation of the law. The state court held that anyone who assisted in conducting a communist meeting was guilty of criminal syndicalism, even though the meeting might be devoted to a discussion of the weather.

Fred Perry Gives Advice

Tells United States Why They Lose So Many Davis Cup Matches

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Mr. Fred Perry, the tennis world's No. 1 amateur who seems currently preparing to become the world's No. 2 professional, made ready this morning to take his share of a $50,000 gate at the Garden tomorrow night, and, at the same time, he gave away some advice. The latter was directed toward the United States Davis Cup team, generally favored to win the trophy, now that Perry has withdrawn himself from circulation at $9,900 for court-side seats at the Ellsworth Vines premiere.

Two Big Mistakes
Mr. Perry clearly intimated that we made and are making two mistakes, the first being that we don't win because we don't like each other enough.

"Too much rivalry and jealousy," he added. "You players should keep in mind that they're playing for their country and not so much for themselves. The trouble, however, is that your team is picked on that basis, whereas the British play just enough tennis to keep in stroke and encourage each other constantly."

And the second mistake? "Why," said he, surprised. "You have too many tournaments. Of course, you do. Don't you would have beaten me in the last national at Forest Hills, but his edge was gone in that last set. He had been through too many matches during the year."

Budge Best Man
"Budge, of course, is your No. 1. For a long pull toward the future, I think I should pass by Bryan Grant and Frank Parker, taking Joe Hunt instead. But, of course, that's your business."

Meaning, Mr. Perry's business looks like it's going to do all right. Competitively, he seemed at or near the top of his game in a two-set workout at the Brooklyn Heights Casino last night in which, teamed with Berkeley Bell, he beat Vines and Bruce Barnes in an informal doubles match, 6-4, 6-4. Financially, the situation is practically magnificent. He ought to be $20,000 richer by midnight tomorrow.

Max Schmeling Planning Tour

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, said today he had closed with promoters of 16 cities in the east and south for an exhibition tour for the German heavyweight challenger, starting March 1 and lasting for about five weeks.

Jacobs said Schmeling would net $50,000 as a result of the tour.

OK THEN

The young man who had been calling on Helen came at last to see her father with: "It's a mere formality, I know, but we thought it would be pleasing to you if you were observed in the usual way."

Helen's father bristled. "And," he asked, "may I inquire who suggested that asking my consent to Helen's marriage was a mere formality?"

"Yes," replied the young man. "It was Helen's mother."

CAUTIONS

"I hear you have a fine cow," said the stranger. "What will you take for her?"

"Wait a minute," replied the farmer cautiously, "are you the new assessor or has my cow been killed on the railroad?"

Ellwood Meets Aliquippa High In Opener Here

Indications Point To Capacity Audience For Section 3 Inaugural Tonight

NEWTON SET ON STARTING LINE-UP

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 5.—Great interest is in evidence in the official opening of the W. P. A. L. basketball league tonight when Section 3 of which Ellwood City high is a member, will swing into action.

The interest is due to the showing the Ellwood Wolverine cagers have made in their pre-season tilts. Against the toughest kind of opposition, college freshmen or reserve teams, the locals have made an impression on their followers. Tonight at Lincoln gym the Wolverines will meet one of the toughest teams in Section 3 with the invasion of the big Aliquippa high team capably coached by Nate Lippe.

Aliquippa comes here with a good pre-season record and is bent on continuing it. Local followers are inclined to think that the Lippe team will have their hands full with the combination that Coach Jerry Thompson has put together. Newton of Ellwood high will send in against them. Coach Lippe has a veteran team in the field which showed their effectiveness against Scott high of Braddock last week which was trimmed in impressive fashion.

Since the final pre-season game at Memorial high in Campbell, O., December 28, Coach Newton has been holding two workouts daily. As a result all indications point to Captain Hauserman and Greco at forwards, Flanagan at center, Dausenbeck and Ugham at guards, as the starting lineups for tonight. The main game is scheduled for 8 o'clock. A game between the Reserve teams of both schools will take place at 7.

Youth Who Escaped State Police At Mercer, Following Robbery, Tells Story

TOY PISTOL IS USED IN HOLDUPS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 5.—Donald Conrad, aged 23, of Cresson, Pa., who staged a series of daring robberies in Western Pennsylvania, prior to Christmas, and who eluded the state police from the Mercer sub-station on December 17, after holding up a gasoline station at Mercer, gave a bizarre account of his crimes when arraigned before Alderman James T. Malloy here Monday. He pleaded guilty to charges of robbery filed against him. He was caught by Portage police, Saturday night.

Conrad eluded the state troopers south of Mercer by hiding in a hay stack, after his companion, Joseph Lance, aged 19, of Ebensburg, Pa., was captured. He hid in the hay stack all that night, and the next day, made his way to Sharon, where he robbed Smith's drug store.

On December 22, he robbed the Morris Greenberg haberdashery at Cresson, securing $150 and two checks, and on December 26, robbed Solomon Marrow, Johnstown merchant of $118. He capped these series of robberies by holding up the Welch Drug Store in Altoona.

In between times, the youth made flying trips to Chicago, Canton, New York City, and to various Pennsylvania cities. He was caught when he had trouble with his battery in Portage, Pa., and was recognized by the police there through pictures sent out from Ebensburg, stating that he was wanted by the police. Conrad had been released from the Huntingdon reformatory on November 21, and lost little time in getting started on his brief crime career. When captured, he had a toy play pistol in his pocket, which he claimed he used in the various holdups.

Junior High School Grove City Need

GROVE CITY, Jan. 5.—The most pressing need of the local public school system is a junior high school department, and a building to accommodate 750 pupils, Supt. H. M. B. Lehn declared in outlining plans for the coming year. Congestion in the high school building has been increasing with 40 to 50 new pupils each year, and additional room is an imperative need. He will urge the board of education to acquire a building site at once.

On Supt. Lehn's list of recommendations are the addition of 1,000 bleacher seats in the athletic stadium, an art course, full-time librarian, and a building for general shop practice, kindergarten courses in the three grade buildings and a dental hygienist.

Figures submitted by Supt. Lehn show that Grove City now has an investment of $650,000 in school buildings, and spent for operation last year $119,610. The per pupil cost last year was $76.01 as compared with an average of $87.80 for school districts of similar size in Allegheny county.

One Third State C. C. C. Youths Never Had Job

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—About one-third of Pennsylvania youths enrolled in CCC camps have never had any jobs.

In order to learn how many of the CCC boys had been previously employed, the Labor Department made a special study of those enrolled as replacements last October. They found that of the 93,620 enrolled in the country as a whole 21-

579, or about 21 per cent, never were employed. Of the 1756 enrolled in the Keystone state, 630, or 36 per cent, never had jobs.

Of the Pennsylvania enrollees, 165 had previously been employed only one month or less and 412 had held jobs two to six months. Of the remainder, 192 had been employed 13 to 24 months before entering the camps, 43 had worked between 25 and 36 months, and only 25 had ever been employed more than three years.

Smirky Attitude By Sullivan Is Being Dropped

Stories Of Execution Of Jacob Gable Have Softening Effect On "Mass Slayer"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—Newspaper stories of the execution last Sunday night of Jacob Gable, the Johnstown "fear" slayer, today ripped away the mask of indifference that had shielded the feelings of Patrolman Martin Sullivan who killed five persons in suburban Duquesne on a "door to door" tour of death.

Unlike Gable who retained his indifference even as he was strapped into the chair at Rockview, Sullivan, the pudgy comedy cop like killer who wore a toupe and used rouge, broke into tears, Warden John McNeil quoted him. "I only worked five days a week when I was working and I haven't got any money to afford one. That's the real reason I haven't tried to do anything. If the worst comes to the worst, I'll just have to prepare myself for what's coming."

For the first time since he was jailed, Sullivan has dropped his smirky attitude and become seriously concerned with his ultimate fate. McNeil said he would take steps to have a court appointed attorney retained for Sullivan.

Young Artist Models Hands Of The Famous

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Hands across the table bring fame to Helen Liedloff, attractive young sculptress. Her clay models of "hands of the famous" have made her one of America's better known artists.

But she is no more interested in hands than in feet—or any other object of her sculpture.

Sitting in her studio workshop, Miss Liedloff talked candidly of her work, her collection and her philosophy.

"The hand collection was not my idea," she said. "I made a few hand models for a jewelry store display window. A fountain pen company executive saw them and decided to use the idea in an indirect advertising campaign."

"He made a contract with me to do the hands of people like Einstein, Amelia Earhart, Lily Pons, Bobby Jones, Rachmaninoff, Katherine Hepburn and others."

"I enjoyed the job. If it had been feet, however, I would have been just as enthusiastic."

The tall, personable young sculptress said she had formed no opinions as to the character expressed by hands.

The young Mr. Dennis and his wife left Dayton, O., with the orchestra on December 20 and will remain in Florida until the 15th of April. The orchestra is filling an engagement at the new and beautiful Hotel Brazell and the local young man is tenor soloist.

(International News Service) WELLESLEY, Mass.—Like the Marriage Club back in '16 which flourished briefly, the Wellesley Spinster's Club is just a tradition at the exclusive girls' college on the shores of Lake Waban.

Residents of the fourth floor of Clafin Hall banded together, refused all dates, asked for no 1 a. m. privileges and went to bed at 10 p. m. promptly—except Saturday nights when they held their club meeting. Their slogan was "Spinsters are born not made."

The president was elected on the basis of the number of dates refused. If one was accepted, a new head was elected.

But it only lasted a few weeks. President after president went into office, and the self-imposed exiles became faint-hearted, and dashed for telephones.

Now the tap-tap of dancing heels preparing for a night out again echoes through Clafin's fourth floor on date nights.

Nine People Offer Eyes To Blind Man

(International News Service) SYDNEY, Australia.—Nine people have offered an eye to Frank Bridgewater, of Moore Park, Sydney, who is nearly blind but hopes to have his sight restored by an operation for which the living cornea from an eye is needed.

Bridgewater has recently been awarded $50,000 by a decision of the Privy Council, but only two of those who have offered their eyes have asked for money in return for their great sacrifice.

The first to offer when it was learned that he had a chance of regaining his sight was his wife. The other offers came from men in different parts of Australia.

Had Bridgewater accepted, it would have meant blindness in one eye for the volunteer concerned. Instead he has decided to go to London for the operation. In the hospital there, he understands, blind eyes with healthy corneas are frequently removed, and he hopes to obtain one of these.
